WELCOME FROM PRESIDENT KIM SCHATZEL

On behalf of Towson University, I congratulate you on your momentous achievement. Whether receiving your bachelor's, post-baccalaureate certificate, master's or doctoral degree, we are excited to celebrate your many accomplishments. Today you become members of a distinguished group: Towson University alumni. To get this far, you have had to exhibit discipline, commitment, resolve and leadership. These qualities will serve you well in any endeavors you may tackle. The presence of our regents, faculty and staff at Commencement reflects the immense pride that our university has in its outstanding graduates.

Towson University works hard to ensure its students emerge well prepared for their professions and ready to make intellectual contributions and discoveries within their respective fields. Our faculty and staff feel privileged to have played a part in educating such an extraordinary group of students. We know that as our newest graduates, you will make notable contributions to the greater Baltimore region and to the world.

We also extend an especially warm welcome to the family members and friends who are joining our students on this special day. We know your presence means so much to them and we thank you for the support and encouragement you have given them throughout their time at Towson University.

Graduates, as you enter the next chapter of your lives, I want to remind you that you will always be a part of the Towson University family. I challenge you to show the world your capabilities by using the knowledge you have gained.

Be a shining example of why TU graduates matter to Maryland!

President

GREETINGS FROM THE BOARD OF VISITORS

On behalf of the Towson University Board of Visitors, the advisory board to President Kim Schatzel, it is a privilege for me to extend heartfelt congratulations and well wishes to you, our 2022 graduates. You should be incredibly proud of all you have accomplished, and you should know that we are extraordinarily proud of you. This milestone is the first of many as you embark on journeys of personal and professional exploration and achievement.

You have charted your own unique course during your time at Towson University, and while the past few years have presented us all with challenges, you persevered, bringing us together on this day—a day to celebrate you! I commend your tenacity and commitment, traits that will serve you well as you venture out into the world.

Whether today is a milestone or a capstone in your educational journey, we are proud that Towson University has been a catalyst for the opportunities and experiences that have shaped your success. Carry forward the knowledge, perspective, relationships and experiences from your time at TU; they will help shape your future.

The world awaits you, and as Towson University graduates, you have the tools to be good stewards of your education. Use them to make a difference locally and globally. Stay connected, stay informed and stay involved at TU. This university is strengthened by you, our alumni, and the impact of your individual and collective achievements. We wish you the very best on your personal and professional journeys and look forward to seeing you back on campus often.

On behalf of the board of visitors, I commend, congratulate and celebrate you on this wonderful occasion. Wherever life takes you, continue to seek out opportunities to lead, serve and learn. We are so proud of you and wish you all the best in your future endeavors.

Susan J. Ganz

Chair, TU Board of Visitors

GREETINGS FROM THE ALUMNI ASSOCIATION

On behalf of the Towson University Alumni Association, I want to extend my sincerest congratulations as we welcome you—our newest members—to the TU alumni family. Today you join a prestigious group of more than 183,000 graduates, and we cannot wait to see the unique and much-needed ways you put your degrees and talents to use throughout greater Baltimore and beyond.

You have overcome tremendous obstacles to reach this momentous milestone, and throughout the experience, you have continually shown the impressive power of hard work, a positive attitude and sheer determination. We are proud of all you have accomplished to get to this point, and we are equally excited to see what you do next.

Although you are embarking on an incredible new chapter of your journey filled with promising opportunities, please remember that you always have the support of the alumni association behind you—both in spirit and in practice. It is our hope that you will stay connected and use the association as a resource throughout your career, no matter where it leads you.

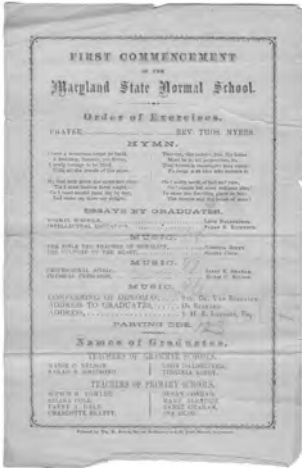

Again, I congratulate you on this fantastic accomplishment, and I enthusiastically welcome you to the Towson University Alumni Association.

HISTORY OF TOWSON UNIVERSITY

First Commencement program: Commencement took place in June 1866, just months after the school opened.

Class photo: MSNS students seated outside the building at Carrollton and Lafayette avenues in Baltimore. The school called this home from 1876–1915.

In 1864, in the midst of the American Civil War, Maryland ratified a new state constitution and created a school for the instruction of teachers, naming it the Maryland State Normal School (MSNS). Normal in this instance referred to écoles normales, a French term for teacher training institutions.

A year later, McFadden Alexander Newell was appointed the first principal of MSNS, and on Jan. 15, 1866, the school opened its doors in Baltimore. Besides Newell, there were three other faculty members—who taught drawing, music and calisthenics—and 11 pupils. In June, MSNS graduated its first class of new teachers.

At first, counties selected promising students to attend for free, so long as those students signed pledges that their objective in attending MSNS was to earn a teaching certificate and teach in the state’s public school system. The curriculum was flexible, adjusting to the students’ needs as they entered the school. This was necessary because of the differences in educational practices across the counties. At the end of the program—whether it took one year or three—the graduates received a teaching certificate that allowed them to teach at any public school in Maryland.

Between 1866 and 1876, the school occupied three different buildings in Baltimore, renting them until Baltimore City built its first home at Carrollton and Lafayette avenues. This space was large enough for the now 206 students and 11 teachers, as well as the model school, and the school remained there for almost 40 years.

While the school building was certainly larger and more comfortable, it didn’t remain so for long. It was constructed to accommodate 226 students, but by 1909, the state needed 350 new teachers every year to fill vacant positions. Even with the construction of a second normal school in Frostburg in 1902, there weren’t enough graduates to fill the teacher shortage. And there were other concerns about its location. The Carrollton building had large lecture halls, but changes in teaching practices demanded smaller classrooms and it was not easy to adapt the building to fit those needs. Because there were no dormitories, students who lived too far from the school to commute had to find boarding houses in Baltimore. The lack of space led to a campaign by the school’s fourth principal, Sarah Richmond, to convince the state to find a new location where MSNS could grow.

On Sept. 20, 1915, the first classes were held at the new location in Towson. Three buildings were constructed—an Administration Building, today known as Stephens Hall, which held all the classes as well as a library, space for the model elementary school and the offices for the staff and faculty; Newell Hall, which was a dormitory for women and also held a dining hall; and the Power House, now known as the Power Plant. Other buildings already stood on campus, including an elegant house named Glen Esk, which became the principal’s residence as well as the main focus for entertaining on the campus.

For the next 25 years, the school's future was linked to the nation's as America teetered from World War I to the Depression to World War II. The school numbers dwindled as students and teachers enlisted or found higher-paying civil service jobs to aid the war effort. School leaders waged a campaign to raise the pay rates of state teachers, hoping that by doing so they could attract more prospective teachers to the school.

In the meantime, MSNS kept evolving. Summer sessions began in 1918. By 1920, standards for incoming students were changed and the course in remedial education was phased out. In 1931, the school curriculum was increased from a two-year course of study to three years.

The sixth principal, Lida Lee Tall, placed special emphasis on the students' social and physical education needs. After her arrival, student organizations and sports teams grew. A student newspaper, The Oriole, began in 1921 and was renamed The Towerlight in 1927. The school began to celebrate May Day, which included dancing around the maypole and crowning the May queen. Donald "Doc" Minnegan joined the faculty as a physical education teacher in 1927 and established a men's soccer team soon afterward. The school administration began giving serious thought to creating a sports program on campus.

In 1934, after a change in Maryland law that required teachers to have a baccalaureate degree, the curriculum was again amended, and the school was granted the ability to award four-year Bachelor of Science degrees in elementary education. This also led to name changes for the Maryland state normal schools, which were now called state teachers colleges, and the title of principal was changed to president. By 1936, Maryland State Teachers College (MSTC) was meeting accreditation standards set forth by the American Association of Teachers Colleges and the American Council of Education.

With the start of World War II, the need for teachers across the state skyrocketed, while the enrollment at MSTC dwindled. M. Theresa Wiedefeld, who became president of MSTC in 1938, took a two-pronged approach to the dilemma. In 1943 she created an accelerated program so students could condense four years of study into three and enter the workforce sooner. Second, she created a junior college program for arts and sciences courses in 1946 that allowed returning military veterans to take background courses in the liberal arts and then matriculate into liberal arts colleges. This would pave the way for Towson University's transformation into a liberal arts college.

The school's post-World War II period was one of amazing growth and expansion in enrollment, campus facilities and academic programs. Earle Taylor Hawkins became president of the school in 1947. During his 22 years of leadership, enrollment increased more than 2,100% and 12 structures were built on campus—more than doubling the number of existing buildings. The Lida Lee Tall School, built in 1960, was the second building to bear her name on campus. It housed the campus elementary school until 1991, when the experiment in campus elementary schools ended. In 1949, the curriculum was expanded and students could now opt for a degree in elementary education or primary education. This is also the year that the school was first accredited by the Middle States Association of Colleges and Schools.

This 1905 Commencement program of the Maryland State Normal School depicts Minerva, Roman goddess of wisdom.

Due to increasing graduating classes, ceremonies were held in Baltimore's Civic Center during the 1970s until the construction of the Towson Center in 1976.

Today Commencement ceremonies are held in the Johnny Unitas® Stadium and split over three days, to accommodate the number of degree candidates and guests.

As the nation's postwar economy grew, so did the school's enrollment, and for the first time, enrollment of men was high. In 1951, the school built two dormitories, Ward and West halls, to accommodate male students. Before this, men who needed to live on or near campus had been housed in various non-academic buildings, such as the Cottage, on the top floor of the Power Plant or in boarding houses in Towson.

Thanks in large part to Minnegan's efforts, the sports teams continued to grow, with the addition of baseball, gymnastics, track, wrestling and, in 1958, lacrosse.

On May 17, 1954, a landmark U.S. Supreme Court case, Brown v. Board of Education, overturned state laws establishing racially segregated public education. For more than 50 years Maryland stipulated that its Black citizens attend "separate but equal" schools. They were separate but too often unequal. The Supreme Court's decision opened the door to educational opportunity. Marvis Barnes '59 and Myra Harris '59 stepped through to enroll at the State Teachers College at Towson. Harris and Barnes, both stellar high-school graduates with glowing recommendations, were to become the first Black students to earn bachelor's degrees from the college. For four years they (and the pioneering Black students who followed them) brought a limited amount of diversity to the overwhelmingly white campus.

The Master of Education program began in 1958. Two years later, the bachelor's program was expanded once again, this time to include a specialization in high school education. At the same time, the junior college begun by Wiedefeld was extended to a four-year program, and students could now earn a Bachelor of Science or Arts in art, biology, English, speech and drama, elementary education, geography, history, mathematics or physical education. This was due in part to the huge influx of students generated by the coming of age of the Baby Boom generation. Higher education was flooded with students, and in order to accommodate them all, teachers colleges could no longer afford to specialize only in education.

In 1963, the state made the five teachers colleges—Towson as well as Bowie, Coppin, Frostburg and Salisbury—into liberal arts colleges, and the name changed to Towson State College. And almost 10 years later, in 1972, the Pledge to Teach tuition waiver was abolished—more than 100 years after it was first put into place.

This period was another of expansive growth. Ten more buildings were added to the campus. Enrollment for day and evening students had climbed to more than 14,000 by 1976. In 1965, evening and summer classes, which had begun in 1958 for employed students working on their education master's degrees, expanded to include more offerings in other concentrations. And by 1976, the academic program offered 40 majors including art, business administration, English, nursing, political science and theatre and six master's programs in geography, psychology, audiovisual communications, biology, speech pathology and audiology and education.

The school's sports programs also grew. In 1963, the Towson Tiger was adopted as the school's mascot. In 1968, Towson University established a football team, which lost its first Homecoming game, played against Gallaudet College. This is the same year that Wiedefeld Gymnasium was razed and replaced by a more state-of-the-art facility, Burdick Hall.

After specific guidelines were created to establish the difference between a college and university, Towson State College became Towson State University (TSU) on July 1, 1976.

Twelve more buildings were added to the campus, most of them student service buildings like dormitories and parking garages. A stadium, originally called Minnegan Stadium, opened in 1977, highlighting TSU's dedication to growing its athletic programs. In fact, in the 1980s, the football team won the Division II Eastern College Athletic Conference title.

Academic programs were also expanding during this time. The departments themselves were restructured into six colleges, which still stand today.

Higher education in Maryland was also reorganized. In 1988, TSU, along with other Maryland schools, merged to form the University of Maryland System, headed by a board of regents and chancellor. This organization was renamed the University System of Maryland in 1997.

That year, after much discussion and debate, Towson State University dropped the word "State" from its name. It was considered a step that would elevate the university in people's minds and also allow the school to develop its own identity while remaining in the university system. This change, which had been made by schools in neighboring states, reflected the lack of funding the school received from the state.

Since its latest name change, Towson University (TU) has continued to grow and expand in terms of enrollment, academic programs and campus facilities. In 2001, TU inaugurated its first doctoral programs, one in audiology and another in occupational science. Since 2000, the campus has erected or is in the process of constructing 15 new structures. The new Science Complex, for example, is TU's latest — and largest — academic space, a new building for the College of Health Professions is under construction. Residence hall space, too, has increased, mostly in the West Village part of campus. Since 2000, the campus has created residence space for more than 2,400 students, including the construction of new, apartment-style buildings in West Village, the renovation of Residence Tower and the conversion of a private hotel into student residencies.

The Science Complex, which opened last year, is a 320,00-square-foot, state-of-the-art academic and research space along York Road near historic Stephens Hall. Since its opening, it's been the home for TU's Jess and Mildred Fisher College of Science & Mathematics and has 50 teaching laboratories, 30 research laboratories, 50 classrooms and more.

Construction is also underway on a brand new building for the College of Health Professions, which will bring programs including audiology, nursing, speech-language pathology, occupational therapy and health sciences under one roof for the first time. It is planned to open in summer 2024.

Towson University endeavors to create and continue partnerships within the community, underscoring the school's history as an organization that applies methods learned in the classroom to real-world experiences. The ability to adapt to a constantly changing world while continuing to build on its long history has helped to make Towson University the outstanding institution it is today.

Towson University seeks to cultivate relationships with Native American and Indigenous communities and nations through academic pursuits, partnerships, historical recognitions, community service and enrollment efforts. These communities and nations include the Susquehannock, Nentego (Nanticoke) and the Piscataway people, who consider the land that the university currently occupies part of their ancient homeland.

We hereby acknowledge the ground on which we reside so that all who come here know that we recognize our institutional history and our responsibilities to the peoples of that land and that we strive to address that history so that it guides our work in the present and the future.

UNIVERSITY TRADITIONS

Regalia

Commencement is both a celebration and an academic ceremony. As such, Towson University is guided by the Academic Costume Code as outlined by the American Council on Education (ACE). All Commencement participants are encouraged to maintain a measure of decorum consonant with the occasion.

The caps and gowns worn by degree candidates and faculty in the academic procession have been the traditional costume of the scholar since medieval times and probably represent an adaptation of the ecclesiastical dress since many of the scholars of that period were members of monastic orders.

The bachelor's gown is distinguished by its long, pointed sleeves. The master's gown has longer, narrower, closed sleeves, extending below the knee; the arm is passed through a slit at the elbow. Finally, the doctoral gown has a full, bell-shaped sleeve with three bars of velvet and an opening faced with wide velvet bands. The velvet trim may be black or of a color indicating the field of learning of the wearer or the institution from which the wearer earned their highest degree.

At Towson University, our graduate students also wear hoods on top of their gowns, trimmed in a colored velvet band to indicate the degree earned.

The Alma Mater

Two graduating students sing and sign the Towson University Alma Mater at the close of every Commencement ceremony. The music was composed by J. Kyle Richards and orchestrated by Brian Balmages.

Ceremonial Mace

The ceremonial academic mace first appeared in European universities during the 14th century and was carried before royalty, mayors of cities and chief officers of the medieval universities. The academic mace represented the amalgamation of two much-older pieces of history: the regal scepter and the medieval battle mace.

The mace immediately precedes the presidential party in the ceremonial procession and is considered one of academia's most treasured symbols of office. It is a fitting symbol and combination of the requisite discipline and earned stature that comes with the academic achievement.

Towson University's mace is beautifully constructed in glass, black metal, gold and maplewood coming together to represent institutional concepts and a visual history of the university. Our mace was commissioned and gifted by the late President Emerita Maravene Loeschke. It was designed and executed by four faculty members in the College of Fine Arts & Communication: Joshua DeMonte, Jenn Figg, Kimberly Hopkins and Jon Lundak.

Gonfalons and Banner Carriers

Gonfalons are ceremonial banners carried on a long pole by students to represent each college, graduate studies and the Honors College. The student banner carriers are specially selected by their colleges to represent one of the three entities for each ceremony. Banner carriers symbolically lead their classmates into the future by carrying the banner at the head of the Commencement procession. This is a very special honor, and we thank our banner carriers.

International Flags

The university is dedicated to cultivating a global learning community and international focus in programs and curricula. The flags displayed on stage during Commencement represent a sampling of the 90-plus home countries of our international students, faculty, exchange scholars and visiting faculty.

Latin Honors

Latin honors are awarded, by college, to undergraduate students in the top 10% of their graduating class based on the cumulative grade point average of all coursework completed in residence at Towson University. In order to be eligible to earn Latin honors, students must have earned at least 56 units in residence at Towson University. Latin honors GPA cutoffs for each college are based on the top 10% of the students from the graduating classes of the previous academic year. Students with majors in two or more colleges earn the highest Latin honors for which they are eligible. Honors are evaluated after the ceremony and will appear on the transcript and diploma when awarded.

Presidential medallion bearing the university seal

Stephens Hall Bell Tower

The Presidential Medallion

The medallion is circular, symbolizing the continuous impact that Towson University has on the lives of those who learn here. The outermost circle contains the university name and location. At the center is the university seal with its shield that incorporates the Great Seal of Maryland's Calvert and Crossland arms quartered. Above the shield are the original earl's coronet and the pennants. The university's founding year, 1866, is inscribed on a banner beneath.

Stephens Hall Bell Tower

Stephens Hall is the oldest original building on the campus. Its history and lore have become part of our students' college experience. The bell tower is especially beautiful, and as part of a tradition in honor of our new graduates, the Stephens Hall bell will toll 16 times at the start of each ceremony, one for each member of the first graduating class.

University Commencement

Every May, one Commencement ceremony features a prominent Commencement speaker from outside of the university community. The ceremony with this notable speaker will be designated as the University Commencement. Although one ceremony will carry this designation, all ceremonies are equally significant to our university community.

University Seal

The university seal is adapted from the reverse of the Great Seal of Maryland. At its center is an escutcheon, or shield, bearing the Calvert and Crossland arms, quartered on an antiqued gold background. Above is an earl's coronet and the pennants. The university's founding year, 1866, is inscribed on a banner beneath.

CEREMONY ETIQUETTE

Commencement at Towson University is a formal and friendly ceremonial occasion. To ensure that all participants and guests have a positive ceremony experience, we ask that everyone in attendance demonstrates courtesies and behaviors befitting the dignity of this formal academic and personal milestone. We encourage all participants and guests to refrain from engaging in any behavior that disrupts the ceremony or prevents anyone in attendance from hearing each graduate's name or seeing each graduate walk across the stage (e.g., audible private conversations, excessive and boisterous yelling, blocking the view of others).

For Degree Candidates

- All degree candidates are expected to remain at their seats until the conclusion of the ceremony and may not leave before the final recessional.
- Candidates for bachelor's degrees, please note that the mortarboard should be worn so that it sits parallel with the ground, with the tassel hanging to the right. During the ceremony, the officiant will ask undergraduate degree candidates to move their tassels from the right front side of the mortarboard to the left as a mark of the official awarding of their degree. Master's and doctoral candidates should wear caps with the attached tassel hanging to the left.
- Please remain seated for the duration of the ceremony. Degree candidates will be directed to stand and exit the stadium when appropriate.

For Guests

- Guests are requested to remain in their seats during the ceremony and not congregate on the concourse. Guests should also not block the aisles or passageways by attempting to greet or take photos with degree candidates.
- Tripods and other photographic or video equipment may not be placed on the floor of the stadium or in the aisles as doing so creates congestion in walkways that must remain clear for safety reasons.
- To allow for the names of all degree candidates to be heard by their family members and guests, we ask all audience members to be considerate of other graduates' guests by providing no more than 2–3 seconds of celebration or applause for their graduate. Guests who bring or use signs, umbrellas, fireworks, beach balls, balloons, air horns, bells or noisemakers will be asked to leave the stadium.

EVENT INFORMATION

Ceremony Captioning Service

Scan the QR code for access to ceremony captions directly on your phone. Please note: Because the number of downloads for this service is limited per ceremony, we ask guests to consider other guests who may need this service before downloading. A QR reader is available in the TU Commencement Guide (located in the TU Event Guides app).

Ceremony Length

Each ceremony lasts approximately 90 minutes to two hours, depending on the number of degree candidates in each ceremony.

Concessions

Water is available free of charge at concession stands (60 minutes before start of ceremony) that will remain open throughout the ceremony. Water may be taken to guest seats.

Degree Candidate Procession

The degree candidates will be in alphabetical order when the procession enters the arena, alternating on each side. The JumboTron allows family and guests to see all candidates well, despite not knowing on which side they will enter the arena.

Emergencies

Contact University Police 410-704-4444 and/or 911. The location of Unitas® Stadium is 7500 Osler Drive, or the following coordinates: 39° 38' 89.80" N -76° 61' 56.50" W or 7500 Osler Drive.

First Aid

In case of an emergency or need of medical assistance, first aid stations are located inside the stadium on both the north and south side concourse. Please see a TU staff member for assistance.

Flowers/Gifts

Flowers and TU merchandise are available at the University store located in the Union. Hours: Monday through Friday, 9 a.m. to 6 p.m.

Lost and Found

Lost and found items can be claimed by contacting a staff member on the day of the ceremonies or afterward by calling the information desk of the University Union, 410-704-4636.

Lost Child

If a child has been separated from his or her family, immediately notify the nearest TU event staff member or police officer, who will attend to the child. TUPD can be reached at 410-704-4444.

Meeting Location

Graduates should plan to meet their families at their cars after the ceremonies and not in the robing tent or the parking lot.

Mobility Impaired Assistance

ADA seating will be available on the concourse level on both sides of Johnny Unitas® Stadium.

Names are Meant to be Heard

At Commencement, we ask guests to be kind and courteous when you hear your student's name for the sake of our faculty, our friends, our families and our students. Please be respectful with applause so that all names can be heard at Commencement.

Restrooms

Restrooms are located throughout the concourse and behind sections 101, 107, 208, and 214.

Seating

All seated will be handled by an usher. Please proceed to your assigned area to be seated fully with your party.

Sign Language Interpreters

Sign language interpreters are located in section 102 of the stadium. Anyone needing this service can go to section 102 and an usher will help seat you. Sign language interpreters will be signing in this area on a platform. No ticket is required for this area; however, your entrance ticket is still needed to enter the stadium.

Social Media

For pictures and ceremony information, follow TU on Facebook, Instagram and Twitter. Share your images with #TUproud.

Tickets

All guests must have a ticket to enter. There will not be a Will Call.

Video Recordings

All ceremonies will be streamed live. This will be done as it was in the past, which is an embedded video player at the top of towson.edu/commencement. In addition, TU will post all ceremonies in their entirety on YouTube within 48 to 72 hours.

GRAND MARSHALS

The role of grand marshal is traditionally held by one of the university's longest-serving faculty members and is nominated by the dean of the academic college. The grand marshal carries the academic mace into the ceremony to signify the start of the processional.

DEITRA E. WENGERT

Deitra E. Wengert, Ph.D., is professor emeritus in the health sciences department. She came to TU in fall 1979 and retired in July 2021 as a full professor. She taught undergraduate and graduate classes and served as the coordinator of school health education, which has been nationally recognized as a leader in the specialty.

Wengert holds an associate degree in health and physical education from the Community College of Baltimore; a bachelor's degree in health and physical education from Bowie State University and University of Maryland, College Park; a master's in school health education from TU and a doctorate in stress management and parenting from University of Maryland, College Park.

Her professional and research areas of specialization are accreditation of college and university school health programs, emergency medical care, first aid and CPR, stress management and relaxation and sexuality education and parenting. Wengert has been recognized on the national level by the awarding of fellows by the Master Certified Health Education Specialist, National Association of Physical Education and Sport, American Association for Health Education and the American School Health Association.

She has collaborated with other national health educators to publish a variety of journal articles and prepare documents for the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention.

DARUSH DAVANI
PROFESSOR, COLLEGE OF SCIENCE & MATHEMATICS

Darush Davani, Ph.D., is a professor in the Department of Computer and Information Sciences in the Fisher College of Science & Mathematics. Davani holds a bachelor's in mathematics from the University of Jondishapour, a master's in computer science from Loyola University and a bachelor's in civil engineering, a master's in structural engineering and a doctorate in engineering and applied science from The George Washington University.

He has been a NASA faculty fellow twice at the Goddard Space Flight Center. His research and publications span a wide range of topics, from earthquake simulation to software reliability models and robotics, discrete-event system simulation, optimization, developmental robotics and cognitive robotics. His research has been recognized and funded by the National Science Foundation, NASA and the Army Research Lab.

During his TU career Davani has served as general chair and chair for international conferences on simulation and multimedia in engineering education and editor of the proceedings of the Society for Computer Simulation. He has been actively engaged in teaching/learning in more than 40 research projects with graduate and undergraduate students at TU. Davani is retiring from Towson University at the end of this term after 37 years of exceptional contributions.

Richard Vatz, Ph.D., is a tenured full professor of rhetoric and communication, a position he has served in for 48 years. He has won several distinguished awards, including the 1994 Thomas Szasz Award for dedication to civil liberties and has written a book on Szasz's work; the 2022 Teacher of the Year Award from the TU Student Government Association (SGA); four campus Outstanding Teaching Awards; the 2004 President's Award for Distinguished Service; and the 2009–10 SGA Faculty Member of the Year Award.

His 41 years of service in the University Senate ranks as the longest tenure in university history, and Vatz was also a faculty teaching fellow at the Eastern Communication Association. He hosts major, national speakers in his classes each year, including former Maryland Gov. Robert Ehrlich, Maryland Gov. Larry Hogan, U.S. House Speaker Nancy Pelosi, Mollie Hemingway of The Federalist and Emmy-winning journalist Sheryl Attkisson.

Vatz has published hundreds of articles in publications like The Wall Street Journal, The Washington Post, The Los Angeles Times and The Baltimore Sun, among others. He has appeared on local and national media outlets as an analyst, including CBS national radio; CNN, including Crossfire, The Phil Donahue Show, Larry King Live and William Buckley's Firing Line. He has provided political commentary for more than 35 years to local, regional and national television and radio, including Fox, CBS Radio, ABC Radio and Maryland Public Television.

DOCTORAL HOODING CEREMONY GRAND MARSHAL

DIANA C. EMANUEL

Diana C. Emanuel is a professor of audiology with 30 years teaching experience, 25 of which she has spent in academic leadership, including serving as graduate program director and chair of the Department of Speech-Language Pathology & Audiology. Emanuel earned a bachelor's degree in communication sciences and disorders from Towson State University and master's and doctoral degrees in communication disorders from The Pennsylvania State University. She returned to Towson University as faculty in 1994 and became the director of the audiology master's program in 1996. Over the past two decades, 169 doctors of audiology have graduated from the TU program. To date, Emanuel has served as thesis adviser for 60 doctoral candidates. Her continued mentorship of these students has resulted in 19 national conference presentations and 12 peer-reviewed publications co-authored with students and alumni.

Emanuel has maintained a passion for teaching and mentoring across her entire career. In 2011, she received the University System of Maryland's (USM) highest teaching award, the USM Regents Faculty Award for Teaching. In addition to a textbook, she has published book chapters and peer-reviewed journal articles. Her video training series, Pure Tone Hearing Screening in Schools, was created in collaboration with Baltimore City Public Schools (BCPS). These open-access materials are used across the U.S. as part of hearing screening education programs. Her current research focus is the Lived Experience of the Audiologist project, a multi-year exploration of the rich perspectives of audiologists.

MONA HANNA-
ATTISHA, M.D.

PEDIATRICIAN, PROFESSOR,
AND PUBLIC HEALTH
ADVOCATE WHOSE RESEARCH
EXPOSED THE FLINT WATER CRISIS

COMMENCEMENT SPEAKER

Dr. Mona Hanna-Attisha, M.D., will serve as Towson University Commencement speaker during the 2022 ceremonies at Uнитар[®] Stadium in May.

She is a physician and public health activist who persisted through scrutiny and character attacks to report the Flint, Michigan drinking water crisis, which started in 2014 when lead from aging pipes leaked into the water supply and exposed around 100,000 people—including 6,000–12,000 children—to elevated lead levels.

Hanna-Attisha will address Fisher College of Science & Mathematics and College of Fine Arts & Communication graduates on Wed., May 25, opening three days of Commencement celebrations. She will also receive an honorary Doctorate of Humane Letters.

“We are honored to welcome Dr. Mona Hanna-Attisha to campus,” says TU President Kim Schatzel. “Her courage and determination as an activist for vulnerable children, underrepresented families and the entire Flint community is an inspiration and has changed thousands of lives. As our graduates celebrate the culmination of their studies and research, they will be reminded of their call to be effective, ethical leaders and engaged citizens for Maryland and beyond.”

Hanna-Attisha has testified four times before the United States Congress and was awarded the Freedom of Expression Courage Award by PEN America. The pediatrician was named one of Time magazine’s 100 Most Influential People in the World and recognized as one of USA Today’s Women of the Century. Most recently, she received the 2020 CDC Foundation’s Fries Prize for Improving Health.

Her 2018 book, “What the Eyes Don’t See: A Story of Crisis, Resistance, and Hope in an American City,” was one of the New York Times’ 100 Notable Books 2018.

Hanna-Attisha is also founder and director of the Michigan State University and Hurley Children’s Hospital Pediatric Public Health Initiative, an innovative and model public health program in Flint.

She has been a frequent contributor to national media outlets, including the New York Times and Washington Post and has appeared on CNN, MSNBC, BBC and countless other outlets championing the cause of children in Flint and beyond. She is the founding donor of the Flint Child Health and Development Fund (flintkids.org).

With concentrations in environmental health and health policy, Hanna-Attisha received her bachelor’s degree and Master of Public Health degree from the University of Michigan. She completed her medical degree from Michigan State University College of Human Medicine and her residency at Children’s Hospital of Michigan in Detroit, where she was chief resident. She is currently a Charles Stewart Mott Endowed Professor of Public Health and an associate professor of pediatrics and human development at her medical school alma mater.

The title of university Commencement speaker is bestowed on one individual each year in a rotation among the colleges. Hanna-Attisha will speak at the 9 a.m. ceremony—the first of three Commencement ceremonies to be held during the week-long celebration of winter 2021 and spring 2022 graduates.

UNDERGRADUATE STUDENT SPEAKERS

Student Speaker Selection

In recognition of the student experience and excellence demonstrated by the entire class, it is the university's tradition to invite individual degree candidates to give remarks during each ceremony. Student speakers join a long list of outstanding graduates who have shared their personal journey, perspective and vision for the future at Commencement.

Selection of speakers is made by each academic college and is based upon the extent to which their achievement represents sustained efforts over the course of their academic career and is an exceptional model for Towson University graduates.

Kobe Highter | Baltimore, Maryland is graduating with a Bachelor of Science in electronic media & film and mass communication. Highter has been an alumni adviser at their alma mater high school Baltimore Polytechnic Institute and an orientation leader in the Office of New Student and Family Programs (NSFP) for three years. In doing so, they became the founder for a program that the NSFP office has taken over, the Freshman Transition Mentoring Program. In Highter's time at Towson University they have been vice president for two acapella groups on campus—Purrfect Pitch and Men'tality—and a board member for the acapella council. They have also been a member of TU's student radio station XTS, becoming the longest-tenured member. They then became a lead at the radio station, producing shows, serving as head of marketing, and liaising for business inquiries. Highter is very passionate about creating a safe space for all and promotes inclusivity for all voices. After graduating they will be working for Alliance Marketing Partners as a brand ambassador for Dunkin and will continue to work independently in the podcasting industry, having created a podcast in 2020 called Tales of The Tunes.

Victoria Howard | Columbia, Maryland is graduating with a Bachelor of Science in business administration with a concentration in human resource management (HRM). She was recently inducted into Beta Gamma Sigma, the international business honor society for AACSB-accredited schools, has been a member of the Towson University chapter of the Society for Human Resource Management since she first transferred to TU in 2020 and is a member of the Black Student Union. Howard is passionate about promoting diversity, equity and inclusion in the workplace and was part of a team that won Target's DEI case competition in her junior year. After graduation, she will start a full-time position in HRM with CohnReznick.

Taryn Lee Painter | Willow Grove, Pennsylvania is an Honors College student graduating with a Bachelor of Science in history and political science and a minor in history and human rights. During her time at Towson University, she served as an undergraduate teaching assistant, interned as an associate editor of the Towson Journal of International Affairs, worked as a research assistant in the Department of History and was named to the Dean's List every term. Painter was the recipient of eight university prizes, including the Dan Jones Prize for Writing Excellence in Social Sciences and the Research Impact Award. She has also presented original research at four state, regional and national conferences and has published work in undergraduate research journals and literary magazines. After graduation, Painter will be serving as an AmeriCorps K-12 tutor and mentor with City Year Philadelphia.

COLLEGE OF

Mikayla McCall | Baltimore, Maryland is graduating with a degree in middle school education with social studies and science concentrations. Her love for teaching began when she used to visit her mom's classroom at a young age, and it grew as she explored classes in the College of Education. In 2018 McCall had the opportunity to study abroad. This program focused on environmental education and service learning in the tropics with Sarah Haines. After this, McCall knew teaching was her niche and switched to her middle school education major. Being from Baltimore, she knew Towson University her whole life, especially considering her mom also attended TU ('90 and '14)! McCall is excited to use all of her skills and experiences she acquired from her Towson University journey to become a middle school science teacher and eventually earn her master's in curriculum planning and development.

EDUCATION

Jacob Damrow | Suwanee, Georgia will be graduating with a Bachelor of Science degree in environmental science with a minor in music. In addition to his love of science, he has maintained his musical interests by participating in the TU Symphonic Orchestra and Marching Band. Damrow has been highly active in the Fisher College of Science & Mathematics as an undergraduate learning assistant for the Department of Biological Sciences and as an undergraduate researcher on multiple projects. Specifically, he has helped conduct exposure and effects assessments of organic pollutants within the environmental science and studies program and studied the formation of disinfection byproducts in drinking water through the Department of Chemistry. Damrow presented his research at the 2022 American Chemical Society National Conference in San Diego, California. After graduation, he will be continuing his academic journey here at TU while pursuing a Master of Science degree in environmental science. Ultimately, he hopes to obtain a doctorate in environmental chemistry before going into academia as a professor.

OF SCIENCE &
MATHEMATICS

Sydney Baucum | Columbia, Maryland is graduating with a Bachelor of Science in sport management and a minor in business administration. Since her first year, Baucum has been an active member of the Honors College, serving as an Honors College student director for the past three years. During her time on campus, she has also served as a Pathways student intern at the Food and Drug Administration and a compliance services intern with TU Athletics and is an active member of the Beta Gamma Sigma Business Honor Society. One of her most challenging and rewarding experiences while at TU has been serving as an undergraduate research assistant for Jaime DeLuca, where she worked on several research projects involving transferable skill development and diversity, equity and inclusion. Baucum has also presented research at the Celebration of Scholarship and Learning, earning first place on her research project exploring the impact of name, image and likeness (NIL) rule changes on collegiate athletics.

HONORS COLLEGE | FALL 2021 / SPRING 2022

The Honors College at Towson University provides an enhanced undergraduate experience for talented and high-achieving students. Honors College graduates have pursued scholarly opportunities including interdisciplinary seminars and research. Upon completion of 24 Honors units and meeting grade-point average requirements, graduates earn the designation of university scholar. This appears on each graduate's transcript and diploma.

Learn more about these university scholars by visiting towson.edu/honorsconvocation. All have a unique story forged from the desire to make the most of their time and the opportunities at Towson University. Like others before them who are now studying at Oxford, serving in the Peace Corps and working at top firms like Brown Advisory, these university scholars will pursue professional opportunities across the country and around the world. They will be leaders in business and industry, education, public service, social service and the arts. With their completion of rigorous academic and cocurricular experiences at TU, the university is proud and grateful to celebrate the successes of this accomplished group of students and alumni.

JESS AND MILDRED FISHER COLLEGE OF SCIENCE & MATHEMATICS

The Jess and Mildred Fisher College of Science & Mathematics (FCSM) offers undergraduate and graduate programs in the physical, biological, mathematical and computational sciences, with a goal of increasing student success through improved student retention, persistence and time-to-graduation while simultaneously maintaining rigorous academic standards.

The college provides an unusually large number of opportunities for authentic research experiences for all undergraduate and graduate students, led by a research-active faculty of successful teacher-scholars.

The college hosts numerous STEM education and outreach programs including Towson UTeach—TU's path to becoming a high school science or mathematics teacher; STEM education for future early childhood, elementary and middle school teachers; and the Towson University Center for STEM Excellence located at the Columbus Center at Baltimore's Inner Harbor.

The FCSM also offers excellent pre-professional preparation for students planning to pursue careers in medicine, dentistry, pharmacy and veterinary medicine.

COLLEGE OF FINE ARTS & COMMUNICATION

The College of Fine Arts & Communication provides a challenging and responsive environment to support creative and scholarly exploration with an emphasis on quality, integrity and personal expression.

The college's multidimensional education is student-centered and dynamic, seeking to engage the future by fostering interdisciplinary work, welcoming diversity in people and ideas, building collaborations with the community and continually challenging boundaries.

These attributes are developed through a broad liberal arts education and specialized professional training.

This unique educational experience results in highly motivated graduates who have the professional preparation and theoretical framework to take risks while pursuing their artistic, scholarly and professional ambitions.

In addition to a wide range of undergraduate and graduate programs, the college also offers all TU students the opportunity to participate in an exciting variety of academic and artistic experiences.

CANDIDATES FOR DEGREES · COLLEGE OF FINE ARTS & COMMUNICATION

So that you may find your particular graduate in the procession, degree candidates will come forward alphabetically. While the goal is to be accurate, please understand any pronunciation errors are unintentional.

Towson University has made every attempt to include the names of all degree candidates in this program. Students who applied to graduate after the established deadline may not appear in the program. Please note that the list of candidates is tentative only.

COLLEGE OF HEALTH PROFESSIONS

The health care, wellness and sport industries are rapidly changing, and the focus on quality patient care, healthy lifestyles and fitness has never been greater. The departments and programs of the College of Health Professions prepare students for the promotion of health, fitness, wellness and quality of life.

The College of Health Professions accepts as its philosophical foundation the belief in the rights of individuals, families and communities to fulfill their potential in life. Graduates of the college are committed to serving the public and meeting critical demand for health care professionals in the region.

The college offers programs at both the undergraduate and graduate level that are designed to prepare professionals to assume roles in a variety of clinical, teaching and community health and wellness settings.

COLLEGE OF BUSINESS & ECONOMICS

The College of Business & Economics (CBE) develops high-quality and innovative programs and resources; connects individuals to opportunities and theory to practice in curricular, extracurricular and research activities; and transforms students who will have a positive impact within Maryland and beyond.

CBE offers four undergraduate majors, 11 concentrations and tracks, three Master of Science degrees, three post-baccalaureate certificates and six minors.

Our business and accounting programs are accredited by AACSB International, which is the highest standard of achievement a business school can receive. Less than 5% of schools worldwide are accredited for business and only 1% are accredited for both business and accounting.

CANDIDATES FOR DEGREES · COLLEGE OF BUSINESS & ECONOMICS

So that you may find your particular graduate in the procession, degree candidates will come forward alphabetically. While the goal is to be accurate, please understand any pronunciation errors are unintentional.

Towson University has made every attempt to include the names of all degree candidates in this program. Students who applied to graduate after the established deadline may not appear in the program. Please note that the list of candidates is tentative only.

Dedicated February 6, 2007

COLLEGE OF LIBERAL ARTS

The College of Liberal Arts (CLA) houses departments and programs that explore what it means to be human, how people construct identities and institutions and how individuals and groups interact over time in communities, in cultures and in nations.

The majors and programs in CLA provide students with opportunities for in-depth learning and experience in a particular field or profession. In addition, the common abilities developed through courses in CLA align well with those identified as desirable for successful careers: critical thinking, effective writing, global awareness, attentiveness to the ideas and beliefs of others and self-direction.

Through its contributions to the Core Curriculum, the college seeks to enhance such abilities in all Towson University students.

COLLEGE OF EDUCATION

The College of Education, in close collaboration with public school districts and other agencies, offers a comprehensive slate of acclaimed, performance-based, professional education programs for the initial and advanced preparation of educators.

The college offers one doctoral program, eight master's programs, three certificate of advanced studies programs and seven post-baccalaureate certificate programs. The college also offers courses leading to Maryland State Department of Education Administrator I. The college teaches students to integrate theory with the wisdom of practice and to embrace a learner-centered focus on teaching and learning.

Graduates from the college are well prepared and ready to enter schools as teachers, school leaders and education specialists.

CANDIDATES FOR DEGREES · COLLEGE OF LIBERAL ARTS

So that you may find your particular graduate in the procession, degree candidates will come forward alphabetically. While the goal is to be accurate, please understand any pronunciation errors are unintentional.

Towson University has made every attempt to include the names of all degree candidates in this program. Students who applied to graduate after the established deadline may not appear in the program. Please note that the list of candidates is tentative only.

CANDIDATES FOR DEGREES · COLLEGE OF EDUCATION

So that you may find your particular graduate in the procession, degree candidates will come forward alphabetically. While the goal is to be accurate, please understand any pronunciation errors are unintentional.

Towson University has made every attempt to include the names of all degree candidates in this program. Students who applied to graduate after the established deadline may not appear in the program. Please note that the list of candidates is tentative only.
