

The standard 2024-2025 FAFSA formula doesn't adjust financial need for family members in college. The FAFSA still asks about family members in college, but the federal financial need formula ignores that question. If you meet the conditions below, you may request a reevaluation of your financial need based on your family member's (sibling, parent, or student spouse) college costs after subtracting their gift aid (grants, scholarships, and tuition waivers). Please note: These adjustments still may not increase your aid offers.

TU Student Name (last, first):	TU I.D. #:

- Independent Students - The FAFSA process didn't require my parent's data and I certify that I (or my spouse and I) will provide more than half of the financial support for the family member(s) listed below from July 1, 2024 to June 30, 2025.

You must attach all documentation when you submit your appeal. Incomplete appeals will not be reviewed.

We will review complete appeals within 3 to 4 weeks. If we need to request additional documents, that may increase the review time.

Submission of an appeal does not guarantee approval. We will only be able to award additional aid if your financial need increases enough to meet the eligibility requirements for additional types of aid. You are still responsible for all outstanding charges with TU.
