his cour	se will ask	you to thin	k critically	about wh	at it means to write about the environment—the "wild" spaces of woods and waterways; the environme	nt as developed by humans (thin	k: indoors and o	cultivated land	scapes): and	how man-made worlds. This course is also designed to place you in a workshop setting, where you can practice your own environmental writing and have that work discussed critically by members of the class. HONR 225 may ONLY be repeated provided a different topic is covered.

001 Core 8 HONORS SEMINAR IN SCIENTIFIC INQUIRY

Study of the quantitative and predictive nature of the natural sciences as well as the nature of the scientific method. Will also explore issues of current importance to society and place them in broad scientific, technological, societal and ethical contexts. HONR 227 may ONLY be repeated provided a different topic is covered.

Core 14 HONORS SEMINAR IN ETHICAL ISSUES: Literature of Violence and Reconciliation Jacob Hovind LA3314 How do writers represent sustained acts of violence? How do they also represent the possible and plausible conclusions to that violence? How do people relate to those who are different from them in violent and non-violent ways? In other words, how do acts of war, genocide, terrorism, and the attempts at recovery from them find their way into imaginative writing? In this course, we will take a historically and culturally comparative approach to answering these questions, considering the relationship between violence and reconciliation and the challenges that they pose to memory, representation, and cultural identity. We will evaluate the different strategies of reconciliation, from war crimes trials, to reparations, to Truth and Reconciliation commissions, and we will watch a documentary and read many different kinds of writing, including philosophy, fiction, memoir, graphic novel, and newspaper editorial. HONR 345 may

ONLY be repeated provided a different topic is covered. You must be of Junior/Senior standing to take this course.

HONR 411 HONORS SEMINAR ADVANCED TOPICS: History of Native American Women Akim Reinhardt LA3201 2:00 PM 3:15 PM MW

History of Native American women from pre-contact to the present. The class will move chronologically, covering an array of topics ranging from Indigenous concepts of gender balance, women's roles in trade and diplomacy, facing and adapting to settler colonialism, resisting and coping with sexual violence and colonial assaults on culture and family structures, women's recent contributions to Native politics and the arts, and modern women's lives. Readings include historical scholarship, biographies, memoirs, and poetry. A heavy focus on discussion and writing. Very likely guest speaker(s).

HONR 413 HONORS SEMINAR ADVANCED TOPICS: Freedom and Happiness from Buddha to Freud Gilad Sharvit 11:00 AM

This course focuses on the foundational place of ideals of happiness and freedom in western as well as eastern philosophical traditions by way of examination of the writings of major figures such as Aristotle, Plato, Rousseau, Kant, Freud, Nietzsche, Foucault, and Adoro and Horkheimer, whose works are considered crucial points of departure for contemporary debates in the fields of political and moral philosophy; postmodernism and poststructuralism; cultural history, theory, and criticism; social sciences (psychology and sociology); and religious traditions and their relation to philosophy.
